Dentistry is my passion! It provides an ideal balance between art and science, and my desire to have an amazing career in the healthcare profession where I can utilize my creative skills. In my “boutique” concierge practice, that I share with my husband, John, I am laser-focused on being patient-centered, delivering the highest quality of care in an ultra-modern environment while using cutting-edge technology. My dental philosophy far exceeds traditional general dentistry. I strive to hone my skills and thirst for knowledge by consistently engaging in advanced training. In 2011, I expanded my practice to offer facial aesthetics, including Botox, fillers and lasers, and have been recruited by the American Academy of Facial Esthetics to travel nationally and teach other dentists, physicians, and nurses. In my practice, my patients receive top-quality care while I help them explore and implement dental and facial strategies that can ultimately help improve their lives.

I received the early part of my dental training at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, which I chose because it was the number one dental school in the country and graduated with honors. I was headed down the path I was destined to be on and continued building from this foundation by investing in my education with post-doctoral training. My hospital-based General Practice Residency in San Antonio catapulted me to a higher level of competency and experience. The extensive training allowed me to gain confidence in complex dental restorations and surgeries, including implants, treating medically compromised patients, certification in IV (sleep) sedation, in addition to, exposing me to ENT and emergency medicine. That comprehensive discipline supplied me the structure to collaborate with my patient's physicians and deliver the ultimate in dental care. Additionally, my experience granted me the credentials to serve as an active staff member at Rose Hospital where for the last ten years I have been delegated as the Chief of Dental Division in the Department of Surgery. Throughout this journey, however, my proudest accomplishment that took ten years to achieve came in 2015 when I became a Diplomate of the American Board of Oral Implantology—one of only nine women in the country with the distinction. Since then, I have been invited to serve the American Academy of Implant Dentistry's Accreditation and Credentialing Board to help form testing questions as well as examine other doctors who seek to achieve their credentials in oral implantology.

Reflecting on the last twenty years of practicing dentistry, I feel incredibly privileged and honored that my patients have put their trust in me, to not only be a part of their personal healthcare but also for their family and friends whom they continue to refer to my practice.
